

Looking For Ways to expand your offerings as a Coach or Consultant

Looking for ways to expand your offerings as a coach or consultant, offer add-on value to your clients or open up another revenue stream in your coaching or consulting business?

Our focus is on providing you with resources that you can offer to your clients that will enable them to manage all stages of the employment and employee development process effectively and efficiently. It will also provide you with a means of developing an ongoing and growing passive income stream that can be crafted to suit your own business goals.

We have done this by teaming with International partners to provide both normative (Prevue) and ipsitive (DISCflex) assessments and eLearning courses.

A number of the coaches we talk to want to be able to add value to their current resources, and here is one way that you can. Becoming a distributor of our range of assessments and eLearning courses will allow you to implement relevant and pertinent solutions into your client companies, whether they be large, medium or small.

Looking specifically at DISCflex, if you are already DISC certified you can become accredited as a DISCflex consultant simply by completing and debriefing your own DISCflex Business Behaviours assessment. This initial assessment is at no cost to you and will give you the chance to experience the DISCflex product for yourself. This will include access to the eLearning attached to the DISCflex assessment.

For more information click here or call Michael Laing on +61 438 201 152